Legendary Rock-N-Roll Blues Musician Edgar Winter to appear on “NYC TV PROFILES”

Host Mickey Burns interviews Musical Legend Edgar Winter on “NYC TV PROFILES”. A child prodigy who achieved International success early on, Edgar has found an audience in every major entertainment medium – Music, and Film & Television. A prolific writer, Winter’s music encompasses many different genres, including Rock, Jazz, Blues and Pop.

In the early 70’s Edgar formed “The Edgar Winter Group” shortly after appearing at Woodstock in 1969 with his brother Johnny.

The legendary band created such hits as the #1 “Frankenstein” and the ever popular “Free Ride”. Edgar has always been a musical innovator – he was the first artist to feature a synthesizer as the main instrument in a song.

In this special edition of “NYC TV PROFILES” that will air citywide on NYC TV, channel 74 on Tuesday March 31st at 7:30 PM. Winter takes us on a roller-coaster ride through four decades of Rock-N-Roll.

As part of this rare interview, Winter discusses his latest album release titled: “Rebel Road”, and performing as a member of “Ringo Starr’s All Star Band”. As an added bonus, this episode includes numerous live performances with Edgar Winter at his best.
